

STRUGGLE

IN THE CITY

THE HAGUE

Caroline Archambault
Leiden University College
c.archambault@luc.leidenuniv.nl

Student Designers/Presenters:
Isaura Simas Pereira
Lina Pitz

<http://www.struggleinthecity.nl/>

DE HAAGSE
HOOGESCHOOL

The Course & Project

Homelessness seeking Insecurity Debt Loneliness Religious Intolerance Intimate Partner Violence Burnout Unemployment Food Insecurity Addiction Elderly Poor Sexual Harassment Asylum Eating Disorders Gentrification Street

Recognition

Empathy

Out-Reach

Unflip this Neighborhood

What are the important places in your neighborhood? Do you have a favourite walking path, playground, park bench? What about a community cafe, bar, or family restaurant? Are these spaces and places under threat from gentrification? In this game, players become local residents of a neighborhood facing the forces of gentrification with the risk of cultural, social, and physical displacement. Against these forces players try to secure their spaces by buttoning them down and not letting them “flip” to meet high class and high income interests.

Isaura, Daan, Noah, Ahmed, 2021

Milo's Neighborhood

Milo is a seven-year-old boy who lives in the outskirts of The Hague with his parents and younger sister. Milo moved to the Netherlands around two years ago from Germany. I babysit him and his sister from time to time. Milo likes the project because he is hoping he can tell grown-ups not to destroy nature.

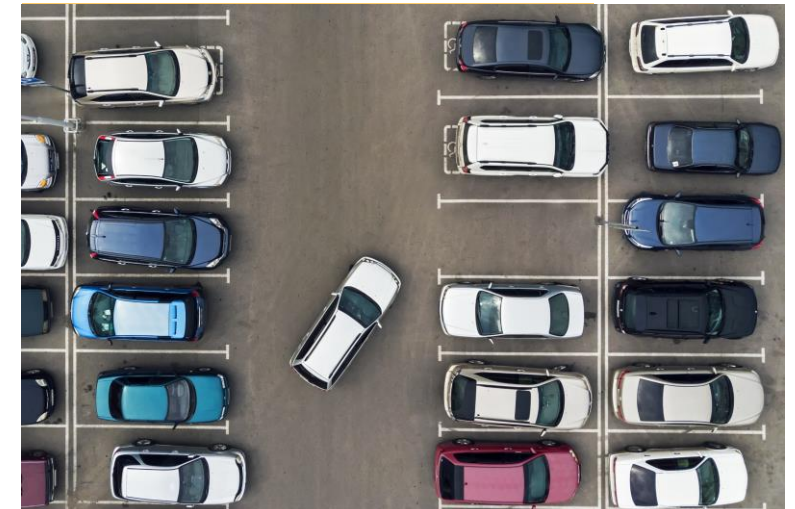

Services:

"I like the hairdresser because I can fall asleep while they wash my hair."

Views:

"I love the view from my bedroom because I see nature and birds."

Threat:

"I am scared that the nature around my house will be destroyed because politicians build a parking lot."